The TOEFL paper-based test (PBT) is currently taken by a very small percentage of students, in places where internet testing is impractical (Nigeria, Kyrgyzstan, and Libya are examples of countries where some test centers offer PBT). Students can sign up for PBT by phone, email or online. Standard test security and academic honesty measures (such as bans on bringing personal belongings into the test centre) apply to PBT, and accommodation can be provided to test-takers with disabilities. Available test dates are much less frequent than those for the Internet-based test (iBT), and PBT is generally not administered more than once a month at a single center. Test takers receive PBT scores by post, approximately five weeks after the test date. The Educational Testing Service (ETS) ultimately plans to discontinue PBT, and it remains available for the exclusive purpose of ensuring access to toefl for all students. The ETS website publishes materials that help test takers prepare for PBT, including sample questions, strategies, and tips. The fee for TOEFL PBT is $170. Students who take PBT must complete all four sections to receive an official score (under PBT sections individually is not allowed). Timing, sections and scoring of TOEFL PBT TOEFL PBT takes two hours and 20-30 minutes to complete. PBT's four sections (discussed in more detail below) are listening comprehension, structure and written expression, reading comprehension and the separate test of written English (TWE). Total PBT scores are given from 310-677 and do not include TWE. Listening comprehension and structure and writing expression are each scored from 31-68, and reading comprehension scores are given between 31 and 67. ETS calculates the total PBT score by converting the raw score (number of correct answers) to scaled scores for each of these three sections, putting them together, multiplying the sum by 10 and dividing the product by 3. TWE scores are reported from 1 to 6 in half point ranges. TOEFL PBT Listening PBT Listening Comprehension Exercises are based on audio recordings of short or long conversations and lecture excerpts. This part of PBT is structured in three parts: A (short conversations), B (longer conversations) and C (conversations). Each part has its own set of unique instructions, and students are not allowed to take notes. In each part, test takers answer multiple choice questions that ask questions that ask about topics such as key points, including facts, vocabulary, and expressions idiomatically to the English language. Each question has four choices of answers, which applies to all sections of toefl pbt with the exception of TWE. The PBT listening comprehension consists of 50 questions to be completed in 30-40 minutes (divided into 30 questions in Part A, 8 questions in Part B and 12 questions in Part C). TOEFL PBT structure and written expressionPBT structure and written expression contain two Structural questions require students to select multiple choice answers that accurately fill sentences with given words or phrases. In written-expression exercises, students are asked to select the wrong word or phrase in a sentence from the underlined settings. The structure and written expression section of toefl pbt is intended to assess the students' command of grammar and standard written English. The PBT structure and written expression are 25 minutes long, during which students must complete 40 questions (15 structural questions and 25 questions on written expression). TOEFL PBT reading comprehensionPBT reading comprehension contains a number of multiple choice questions about short reading passages, each of which is approximately 10-35 lines of text. Reading the passage topic is intended to reflect topics that are likely to be included in college courses. Among the important skills of PBT Reading Comprehension is understanding the most important ideas, using context to infer meaning, and understanding of factual information. On the reading-comprehensible part of toefl PBT, students must answer 50 questions in 55 minutes. The number of questions related to each reading excerpt depends on the length of the passage, and can vary from 6-12 questions for each. TOEFL PBT Test of Written English (TWE) At TWE, students must write a single essay on a given topic for which they are given 30 minutes. Essays are written by hand in the accompanying test booklet. Successful implementation of TWE relies on demonstrating the ability to organize and express ideas, present evidence to support claims, and follow conventions written English. Essay topics can cover a number of topics, and the essay usually involves staking an opinion on some debatable issues.
